This neat little cafe in the city came highly recommended from a friend so I gave it a try when I was in the city the other day. It certainly lived up to it's reputation. Really rich and nutty espresso with a light golden crema. Service was prompt and relaxed. They had me seated and water on my table within 20 seconds. The follow up latte was impressive, such a joy to see cafe's supplying good quality coffee. The milk made to perfection and the marriage of milk/espresso was sublime, so I naturally sat and had a couple more. The atmosphere was bustling but enjoyable, good for a long sit down and people watching. addict 007.'

'Best Coffee in town

I have been going to Ludo at least twice a week for my morning coffee for a few months now. Seriously guys they know how to DO coffee. I managed to convince my boss to get them to cater for the monthly "Friday Drinks" last week. Absolutely fantastic food! anniegirl64.'

'Supurb café – highly recommend

Ludo is surperb for breakfast or lunch, they serve quality food expertly and promptly. Its a sophsticated place with very reasonable pricing. They sell high quality produce which is very tasty. My personal favourites are the paninis, baguettes and the daily specials are always good. There is table service and boutique wines by the glass. I highly recommend Ludo, it is rated my top Melbourne Cafe!!! Lana.'

'Well honestly, this wasn't the best week in Melbourne to be trotting around the CBD, sampling coffee, 40+ degrees, 3 days in a row, but I had to soldier on, nothing can stop the CaFFiend on his quest for espresso nirvana! This quaint little café came HIGHLY recommended, nestled in amongst offices and a hairdresser; it was easy to see why, as soon as I walked in. A real happy and vibrant place, the staff were friendly and courteous, the service prompt, the coffee experience, promising. As I took a seat and watch the baristi in action from my vantage point, I could see that there was no mistaking it, these guys were real pros. I ordered a ristretto, confident that they would be able to produce a decadently, delightful brew, and to my relief they did. Allpress is quite a serious coffee, and the golden crema, the wafting nutty undertones and the sharp chocolate on the nose were clear indicators that my taste buds were in for a treat. It did not disappoint and was actually quite smooth and sweet on the palate. Following it up with a café latte, I was already quite impressed with these guys as they were really very attentive to their customers needs, offering water, which all good cafes do as a standard now! My café latte came out beautifully presented, the foam dense, the temperature perfect, the interaction between the silken milk and the espresso made in heaven; a real BIG 3 bean café, a hidden gem! Look out for ludo, next time you're in the CBD, this place really knows their coffee, till next time: Keep on Caffeining onThe CaFFiend!!!!'

'Inner Melbourne hipsters and professionals can't get enough of this little beauty on Queen Street. A cosy refuge from the hustle and bustle of the CBD, this breakfast, lunch and casual coffee house boasts a menu of fresh ingredients, from a slice of organic fruit toast in the morning sun to a panini or antipasto plate in the afternoon twilight. Freshly brewed Allpress coffee is available all day long, as are the boutique wines for carefree daydreamers.'
